BetaShares Nasdaq 100 ETF (ASX: NDQ)

The Nasdaq-100 Index® has come to represent the new economy – a collection of young, growth enterprises that are on the forefront of innovation

With the BetaShares Nasdaq 100 ETF (ASX NDQ), Australian investors are able to access the Nasdaq-100 Index® as simply as buying any share on ASX. NDQ gives Australian investors the chance to invest in many of the world's most innovative companies that continue to revolutionise our everyday lives including Apple, Facebook, Amazon and Google.

NDQ offers investors a simple and cost-effective way to diversify their investment portfolio into high growth potential US equities, with a strong focus on technology, and the opportunity to gain exposure to one of the world's most actively traded indices.

Fund Objective

The BetaShares Nasdaq 100 ETF aims to track the performance of the Nasdaq-100 Index®, before fees and expenses.

What is the Nasdaq-100 Index®?

Launched in February 1985, the Nasdaq-100 Index® provides investors with exposure to the performance of the 100 largest non-financial companies listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market, by market capitalisation. The Index contains category defining companies across major industry groups such as technology, telecommunications and retail.

Since its launch, the Nasdaq-100 Index® has evolved into a leading barometer for strong, growth companies at the forefront of innovation. Companies included in the Nasdaq-100 Index® have helped drive the modern economy and the evolution of the Index, and, in many ways, the Index is a reflection of how the business world has shifted in the 21st century.

Access to Technology & Innovation

Australian investors wanting to take advantage of the significant growth currently taking place in the global technology sector have, to date, been severely restricted, with only a very small number of large-cap technology companies available on the ASX.

NDQ offers exposure to a sector under-represented in both the Australian S&P/ASX 200 Index and, for that matter, the benchmark US Index, the S&P 500. As an illustration, the table below provides a breakdown of the index weightings by Industry.

Over time, the companies that make up the Nasdaq-100 Index® have matured substantially, which has seen the fundamentals of the Index improve dramatically. Since 2003 to June 2018 the Nasdaq-100 Index® has had an annual compound growth rate of:

- +15% p.a. in earnings per share
- +12% p.a. in revenue
- +25% p.a. in dividends per share
- -39% in Price-to-earnings ratio*

This improvement in Index fundamentals has corresponded to strong investment performance by the Nasdaq-100 Index® over the last decade. For example, since January 2005 to June 2018 the Nasdaq-100 Index® has outperformed the S&P 500 by ~3.5% per year.
