ASX: HVST

BetaShares Australian Dividend Harvester Fund (managed fund)

Harvest income from Australian shares, defend against market losses.

HVST provides attractive, tax-effective monthly income and the potential for reduced risk during market declines.

HIGH INCOME, PAID MONTHLY

HVST aims to deliver high, tax-efficient income (plus franking credits) which is at least double the yield of the Australian broad sharemarket on an annual basis.

TAILOR-MADE FOR SMSF AND RETIREE INVESTORS

HVST was specifically created to meet the investment challenges of SMSF and retiree investors through the Fund's income and risk reduction objectives.

A SMOOTHER INVESTMENT RIDE

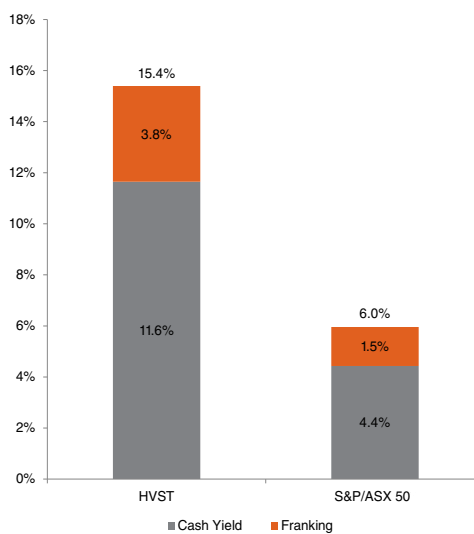

HVST's risk management strategy aims to provide most of the upside in rising markets, while reducing the downside in periods of decline.

LIQUIDITY

Investors can buy or sell HVST as they would any regular share on the ASX.

HVST: Income vs S&P/ASX 50: 28 February 2018

Source: BetaShares, Bloomberg. Based on 12 month trailing data. Yield figures are calculated by summing the prior 12 month net and gross fund per unit distributions by the fund closing NAV per unit at month-end. Franking level over the last 12 months includes estimates. Actual franking level will be determined as at the end of the financial year and may differ materially from estimates due to various factors, including changes in the number of units on issue. Past performance is not an indicator of future performance.

HVST's Risk Management Strategy

The Fund's risk management strategy involves monitoring the Australian sharemarket on a daily basis. If volatility rises above normal levels, the Fund will reduce its exposure to the sharemarket with the aim of defending against market declines
